Sheep Have a Place on Tennessee Farms

In the light of the remarkable natural advantages, the wonderful adaptability of Tennessee to the business of sheep raising, it is difficult to understand why sheep are not raised in larger numbers on the farms of the State, say livestock specialists. Sheep have their places on every well regulated farm. There is scarcely a county in Tennessee in which the sheep and lamb population has not suffered a frightful decrease during the past decade.

The sheep population of the state has decreased 46 percent since 1910. The decrease has been the largest in the Middle Tennessee counties, Lincoln and Giles Counties suffering the least, with a decrease of 33½ per cent, while Maury, Marshall, Bedford and Sumner with a heavier decrease of approximately 66½ percent. Williamson County has a decrease of about 50 percent; about the same as Wilson County.

From the above data it looks like this is a good time to buy sheep say livestock specialists. They are scarce but cheap. Lambs are selling well, and wool within a year or so will get back to a paying point. We are today producing only three and one-half pounds of virgin wool per capita, whereas, twelve pounds is our normal requirement.

During the past year we had only 281,774 mature ewes in the state. From all records it is found that 9,600 head of mature ewes produced only 86.5 of a lamb crop. The best sheep men in Tennessee raise 125 per cent of a lamb crop, while a few raise 150 per cent. Tennessee farmers can greatly increase the number of lambs raised by more carefully selecting ewes, by the use of a good purebred ram and plenty of nutritious feed throughout the breeding season, lambing season, and during the spring.

VIENNA DEATH RATE BECOMES APPALLING

Condition of Children Even More Harrowing, Declares Authority on City's Desperate Plight.

Five years of famine have resulted in greatly increased mortality and morbidity in Vienna which before the war was counted as one of the healthiest cities in Europe. Figures prepared by Dr. Gustave Bohn, head of the Vienna Health Department, show that in 1918 the death rate was 15.3 per thousand. In 1919 the rate was 22.5 per thousand, an increase of more than 47 per cent.

Professor Hans Spel of the University of Vienna, says that "even more terrible than the mortality statistics are those referring to the condition of children and their mothers. Owing to under-nourishment few mothers can nurse their babies, and the milk shortage affects not only infants, but all children in spite of all that has been done to help. At Professor Clemens Pirquet's clinic in the university some 54,849 children were examined in 1918. Only 4,637 of these or about one-thirteenth were passed as skin good, fat good; 23,609 were pale and thin, or very pale and very thin. "The health of these children shows most disquieting features. Skin disease, rickets and Barlow's disease are rife. "The chief medical officer of Vienna asks, 'What is going to happen to these under-fed children, in whose bodies the germ of tuberculosis is latent, when they reach the twenties, at which time it becomes active?'"

ENDORSED AT HOME

Such Proof as This Should Convince any Somerville Citizen

The public endorsement of a local citizen is the best proof that can be produced. None better, none stronger can be had. When a man comes forward and testifies to his fellow citizens, addresses his friends and neighbors, you may be sure he is thoroughly convinced or he would not do so. Telling one's experience when it is for the public good is an act of kindness that should be appreciated. The following statement given by a resident of Somerville adds one more to the many cases of Home Endorsement which are being published about Doan's Kidney Pills. Read it.

W. H. Leach, Sr., merchant, S. Main St., Somerville, says: "I had an attack of the grip, and I think it left my kidneys weak. I suffered from attacks of backache and the trouble was always worse in cold weather. I also had dizzy spells. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and got a box, and began to use them. It didn't take Doan's long to entirely cure me and I gladly recommend them."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Leach had. Foster Milburn Co., Mfgs. Adv.
